EDITOR'S CORNER

BY: BILL HICKEY, 33°
EMAIL: WA3H@HOTMAIL.COM

So, I was thinking ... HOW do I write about something significant as we prepare to go “dark” for the summer months—and I likewise will be “so busy now that I’m retired, I don’t know how I had time to work.”

A recent edition of my favorite “Sunday Masonic Paper” was VERY appropriate for our Craft - but unfortunately, this issue is a bit larger than normal due to the “extended vacation” I’m taking this year (for the first time folks) over the summer. So, I’ll hold off on it until later. But, the THEME of the paper is, “if you accept an office in your lodge (or other organization), you should consider being a Lodge officer as more than “just another title” to wear. You accept a job, you accept the responsibilities that go with it.

How many times have we seen a new Master Mason join a lodge, and be immediately put into a chair before he even has a chance to figure out what all the chairs really do? How many times have we seen those men so pushed into line having to jump a chair or two on the way to the east - making the trip much shorter than it should be? How many times have we seen these same men enthusiastically tackle these jobs, join appendant and concordant bodies, and literally burn themselves out in a couple of years - never to be seen again?

So, I always ask “WHAT’S THE HURRY?” Of course, from the old-timer’s in lodge, it’s because they’ve been recycled over and over again, they’re tired, and they need a break—so they look to the “new blood” in the lodge to pick up the slack. But, then they too disappear because they figure they’ve earned that well-deserved rest.

From the newcomer’s perspective, they’re being asked to collapse a 7 to 10 year line progression into 4 or maybe 5 years—having to learn all the work associated with that—while still trying to balance a home life with family, a professional life on the job, and then trying to scrape up a little personal time for themselves to contemplate whatever strikes their fancy.

It’s all too easy to get OVERWHELMED by joining too many groups in that early enthusiasm to learn everything there is to know, and yet in the process I’ve witnessed some (not all to be sure) of our brethren get so involved that they end up creating Masonic Widows or Masonic Orphans in the process.

In Scotland, we are FORBIDDEN from approaching a newly made Master Mason for ONE YEAR—he is to take that time to get used to his new lodge, new brethren, and figure out where he wants to go from there. It’s not really a bad idea when you think about it.

Have a GREAT SUMMER. See you in the Fall.

Bill

From the Rose Croix WEST

By: Benjamin F. Williams, 32° KCCH

Senior Warden, Rocky Mountain Chapter, Rose Croix

“Often it has been said, yet it is always a solemn and impressive thought, that in death all men are equal. The prince and the beggar that crawled to his palace gate; the warlike and the peaceful, the fortunate and the miserable, the beloved, the hated, the honored, and the despised. There they mingle their dust, while God alone can distinguish their souls.”

The Rose Croix Funeral Service is sobering. It reminds us that, in the anonymity rendered by death, all things are reduced and become ultimately immaterial.

But this must be a type of liberty because men are united by mortality and are enjoined to prefer experience (action) over materialism (possession).

Marcus Aurelius writes in his Meditations that, “Alexander the Great and his mule driver both died and the same thing happened to both. They were absorbed alike into the life force of the world, or dissolved alike into atoms.” His suggestion seems to be any distinction must be manmade.

Shakespeare posits likewise; in Hamlet, Act V, Scene I, witnessing the gravedigger, Hamlet says, “Has this fellow no feeling in his business? He sings at grave-making.” As the gravedigger then tosses a couple of skulls around nonchalantly, Hamlet reveries with Horatio on the supposed identity of the bones: variously a politician, perhaps a courtier or a lawyer. But the skull is (fittingly) that of the Court Jester, Yorick. Then, the famous soliloquy, “Alas poor Yorkick! ...”

Although the Chapter is the purview of the 18°, and the so-called philosophic degrees, there is much here to share with the 30°. The Preceptor reminds the Aspirant, “Reflect upon these ghastly remains of men who were once like you: men who loved, hated, labored, were moved by joy, sorrow, and all the passions that agitate humanity ... You know not how soon your skull may take the place of one of these!” The collection of relics are alike; any crown cannot distinguish them.

Knights Templar will likewise recall this teaching in the famous Ode to the Skull that, with homage to Shakespeare perhaps, poetically posits the same premise in one of the best portions of Masonic ritual anywhere. It’s fitting indeed that the author of that particular verse remains unknown.

This teaching of “the Grand leveler” occurs many times in the ancient world, and is certainly part of the Mystery teachings. This is perhaps alluded to in the 30° where the words on the obelisk proclaim: “He who overcomes the dread of death shall ascend above the terrestrial sphere and be entitled to initiation into the greater mysteries.”

A story of Diogenes, the mendicant philosopher of Ancient Greece, relays that Alexander the Great dismounted to ask Diogenes what he was doing (Diogenes was seen to be playing with human bones). Diogenes is said to have replied, “I am searching for the bones of your ancestors. But I cannot distinguish them from these bones of a beggar.”

In the Eastern religions overcoming attachment signifies the same essential lesson: Be free of gross desire that motivates terrestrial conquest and instead live in the glory of the present. There is magic in the moment! All things rise and fall beneath the moon - in the end, there is only One.

Interestingly, this teaching is one favored by Bavarian Illuminism as well as the so-called “higher degrees” in the early, unfinished work of Adolph Knigge in preparing the third class of Weishaupt’s system (interestingly, Weishaupt titled his work, Diogenes’ Lamp). It appears in Yale’s Skull & Bones and is arguably a tool on the one hand to liberate the candidate from timidity and avarice. Conversely it can be used to effect disassociation and thus devolve into nihilism. Thus, the teaching must be couched in the proper context and used, as our Funeral Service properly reminds us, to suggest, “though this earthly house of clay be broken, we through faith and obedience to Thee, shall at last be received in that glorious Temple above, that house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.”

Thus memento mori, good Brethren, that you may be inspired to good acts now!

THE PRELATE'S PULPIT

Rev. Jim Harris, 33<sup>o</sup>

May is a special month as we usher in the warmth of summer - Memorial Day is the unofficial beginning of the summer season. This is the time when lodges and Masonic bodies "go dark" which simply means they are not meeting. It is a time for us to maybe slow down and gather our thoughts and feelings about our lives and enjoy this lovely time of the year. Of course, we know the work of Masonry does not grow dark, but continues unabated. We will still have our Friday lunches, our summer dinner, and other activities for our members and their families. The Grand Lodge budget session will be held in August.

May 28 (Memorial Day) is a day for us to pause and remember those who have gone before us. Our Scottish Rite Service of Renewal and Remembrance was very meaningful. My Brothers, I invite you to relax, be positive, and enjoy the summer warmth.

I hope you all have a great summer. Remember your Masonic teachings, and be safe in your travels. Above all else, be positive and keep your faith strong.

Peace and Joy,
Ill. Br. Rev. James Harris.

THE NAVY HYMN

Most of us have heard the Navy Hymn at one time or another. However, we've probably only heard the FIRST verse unless there was a special verse for airmen, army/marine corps as well. But, the original words were written by William Whiting of Winchester, England in 1860, and there are four very distinct verses - provided herewith for your edification and enjoyment.

---

Eternal Father, strong to save,
Whose arm hath bound the restless wave,
Who bidd'st the mighty ocean deep
Its own appointed limits keep;
Oh, hear us when we cry to Thee,
For those in peril on the sea!

O Christ! Whose voice the waters heard
And hushed their raging at Thy word,
Who walked'st on the foaming deep,
And calm amidst its rage didst sleep;
Oh hear us when we cry to Thee,
For those in peril on the sea!

Most Holy Spirit! Who didst brood
Upon the chaos dark and rude,
And bid its angry tumult cease,
And give, for wild confusion, peace;
Oh hear us when we cry to Thee,
For those in peril on the sea!

O Trinity of love and power!
Our brethren shield in danger's hour;
From rock and tempest, fire and foe,
Protect them wheresoe'er they go;
Thus evermore shall rise to Thee
Glad hymns of praise from land and sea.
